Learning an instrument

Joshua

I started playing the piano when I was five years old, but as soon as I picked up my first guitar two years ago, I knew it was the perfect instrument for me. I take lessons every day after work. At weekends, I play in a band with my old college friends. At first we played at parties and other events for free, but as we improved, we started making money and now it's a part-time job for all of us.

Mary

Last year, I signed up for piano lessons. At first, I hated it! It was a lot of work and I practised the same songs over and over before I got them right. After a few months, though, I started to enjoy it. I practised whenever I could and soon I began to improve. Now, I'm part of a local orchestra, where I've made lots of friends who share the same love for music as me, and I sometimes take part in international competitions against top piano players. I'm glad I didn't give up!

Peter

When you decide to learn a musical instrument, most people choose something like the piano, the guitar or the drums. These instruments are the ones we hear most often, as well. But the instrument I play is a little more unusual – it's the bagpipes. My grandfather played the bagpipes, and so does my father, so I learned how to play when I was very young. Now, I teach people how to play the bagpipes as a part-time job.

PART 3

Questions 14-18

For each question, choose the correct answer.

Saoirse Ronan:

Rising Star

Saoirse Ronan is a rising star in Hollywood with a special story. Although she was born in New York, USA, she moved to Ireland with her family at the age of three. She grew up in Dublin and she always loved acting. Her first acting jobs were on television programmes at the age of nine, but soon her talent was noticed by famous directors and she was chosen to act in films.

Saoirse nearly won an Academy Award when she was just 12 for her part in the 2007 film Atonement. She is the star of recent films like Mary, Queen of Scots and Lady Bird, which helped make her famous around the world. She also plays Jo March in the new film version of Little Women.

Even though she's famous, Saoirse still has a normal life. In between films, when she's not staying in London, she likes to spend time with her mother in the small town of Howth, Ireland. One of her interests is protecting nature. She is working with the Irish government to create a programme to grow food in ways that don't harm the environment. She hopes her work will make a better future for everyone. In her words, "This land belongs not to us, but to the ones who come after."

- 14 How old was Saoirse when her family moved to Ireland?
